RE: Meeting Documentation, Interstate Brick Company, Cottonwood Pit, M/035/003, Salt Lake County, Utah

On September 6, 1990 a meeting was held at the Division of Oil, Gas and Mining (DOGM) offices to discuss a denied transfer request made by City Development Corporation (CDC) for Interstate Brick Company's (IBC) Cottonwood Pit property. Representing IBC were Lance Jackson and Jerry North; Donn Hilton representing Questar Corporation; Walter Plumb and Mike Swenson represented CDC; Lowell Braxton, Wayne Hedberg, Holland Shepherd and myself represented DOGM.

The transfer request made by CDC for the Cottonwood property had been denied by DOGM because the property was not being transferred to another mining entity for the purpose of continued mining. DOGM had then requested that the property be reclaimed by IBC for the post mining land use of native rangeland. CDC has proposed a housing development for the post mining land use of this property.

After an open discussion by all parties, the following conclusions were reached: 1) CDC will provide IBC with detailed plans of the proposed housing development. 2) IBC will review the plans, stake out the proposed roads and coordinate a site visit for representatives of CDC, DOGM, and IBC. 3) After the site visit, IBC and DOGM will develop a revised reclamation plan for the Cottonwood Pit which will integrate with the housing development plan and provide measures to mitigate the potential slide hazard. 4) When reclamation of the site has satisfied DOGM standards, IBC and the property will be released from further DOGM reclamation obligations. A definite time table was not set up for these actions although CDC was to provide IBC with the housing development plans within several days.
